What Makes A Good Parent

Things that make a good parent are they love and care for you. A good always helps you when you need help. They listen and pay attention to you. They encourage to do new things. A good parent is always protective for you. A good parent always encourages you to move on. Good parents teach you right from wrong. Good parents help their kid get an education and attend college. Good parents take care of you or take you to the hospital when you are sick. Good parents comfort you when you have a nightmare. A good parent treats you like they want to be treated. That's what I think makes a good parent.

My parents are good because they help my family a lot. They help my family get through a loss of someone. They help get God's spirit in my soul and keep my faith up with God. They help me do my homework or help me stay safe from other people that want to hurt me. They also help me understand things and help me find new friends. When they help me, I feel like a person who will help people in the world that need help. My parents are very good parents and I love them with all my heart.

What makes a good parent

A good parent is someone who listens that is there for you. A parent that helps you in every thing, caring and loving with open arms. One that not only a parent but a friend. Someone to confide in and can talk to. That is comforting when feeling depress or sick. But most of all a parent is one who will always be there no matter what good time or bad ones. Helping through every-thing as life grows from beegining to the end, and what happens in the middle. Parents teaching as right from wrong. With trust and hope and love.

A Good Parent

A good parent will listen to your problems. They make sure you have food so that you stay healthy and strong. Your parents will always care for you. Instead of using their hands and words to hurt you they use them to hug you and make you feel loved. When you have a good parent they make sure you have a home to live in and clothes to wear. Good parents set rules to teach you right from wrong. They help you with your homework when you get stuck. When you are sick they take you to the doctor.
