What makes a good parent?

By: Alex Koskela

What makes a good parent is when a parent teaches you how to act the right way. They teach you to be nice to others, use your manners, and to tell the truth. A good parent also teaches you by taking you to interesting places like, Kelley's Island, museums, and nature walks. A good parent is when your parent helps you with your homework. A good parent wants you to always give your best effort. A parent takes care of you when you are sick or healthy. They give you food, clothes and a place to live. A good parent gives you what you need and sometimes what you want. A good parent loves you just the way you are.

Dear Mom and Dad,

I think you are special because if someone is being mean to me or if I'm sad I know you will be right next to me to cheer me up. I love how you always are so nice to me like you play games with me you help me with my homework, you cook the best meals for me, and on my birthday you will take me to whatever restaurant I want to go to. Mom I like the way you always take me to the mall and get my toes done and get my finger nails done. Dad I like the way you always play catch with me and you help me with my school work so I'm smarter and I get a good grade on my grade card. Mom and Dad thank you for working so hard to keep our family safe. If anything happens to you I would be so sad and I would try my hardest to keep you the same. Thank you for being so special to me.

 Sincerely,
Your daughter Isabelle.
