A good parent to me does many things. My mom and my dad have a curfew for me and my brother. The reason we have a curfew is because my mom told me a story. She was out with a friend and she had to go home and she said "great" her friend said at least your parents car about you. They work hard for me todos parts. My mom and dad also do soccer with me. They are car ing because they watch movies with me. That is what makes a good parent.

My parents are special because they help me with homework and they make me write spelling words three times on Thursdays. They also give me a long time to read everyday to get better grades in school. My dad came to the United States from Burma so I can learn here and our whole family could have a better life here like most immigrants. I came here with my mom at the age of five. My parents want me to be smart and get good grades at school so that someday I can be a science professor!
